Favreau And Ottawa Blamed For Failing U.S. On Rivard

New Democratic Leader Douglas said in the Commons Tuesday night he is sceptical about the government's "sudden enthusiasm" for social and economic reform. SIR EDMUND
... Off to hills

Sir Edmund Schullman, the mountaineer, left New Zealand Tuesday night for the United States where he will spend three weeks preparing for his 19th working expedition in Nepal. The expedition will organize maintenance work on schools there.

Dr. Morton Schullman, chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto, who has been in hot water with the Ontario government, has asked Attorney-General Arthur W. Harris for a clear definition of the chief coroner's authority.

M. W. (Short) Hertridge, the baron of the Kootenays, explaining why he has decided to retire from the busy busy House of Commons politics in his huge ranch when the next election is called, said "The Missus has put her foot down." Several factors influenced his decision. His age—he is 70—a desire to work the ranch again and a hankering to write the colorful story about the moving of the Hertridge family from Britain to Canada. But the main reason, he said in an interview, is that his wife wants him to retire so they can spend some time back in British Columbia.

government motion to adopt the throne speech outlining the government's legislative program.

The NDP action, criticizing the government for not implementing a medical care program, is to be voted on just before today's 6 p.m. EST adjournment.

The Conservative amendment, claiming loss of confidence in the government because of "in-difference and neglect" of "action to eradicate wrongdoing in high and low places," will come to a vote Friday.

Moving want of confidence in the government is the normal Commons gambit during debate on the throne speech. But with a minority government capable of being sent down to defeat by a combined opposition vote, interest is heightened.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker opened the proceedings on Tuesday's day of the throne speech debate—an eight-day affair that opens discussions on any and all phases of government activity.

He hit hardest at what he called the "compulsive absence" of references to allegations of scandal which have swirled around the government in recent months.

Measures were needed "to stamp out influence, peddling and corruption" in government. He mentioned involvement of cabinet aides in a judicial inquiry into allegations of bribery and pressure attempts in the Lucien Rivard narcotics case and involvement of two cabinet ministers in no-down-payment furniture purchases from a firm that went bankrupt with millions owing creditors.

"You will not have a great Canada if your nation in its Parliament does not stand for high principles in high places."

Mr. Pearson replied that he obtained the resignations of Guy Rouleau as his parliamentary secretary and Yves Dupuis as minister without portfolio soon after specific charges against the men were placed before him. Mr. Rouleau has been a key witness in the judicial inquiry over the Rivard case; Mr. Dupuis faces charges in connection with an alleged payoff linked to a racetrack franchise bid in Quebec.

He suggested the road be connected with Highway 16, the northern trans-provincial highway.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson caught Opposition Leader Diefenbaker off base in the Commons Tuesday after the Conservative chief had complained bitterly about the reported establishment of an RCMP auxiliary force.

"We have not been told what it is to do and where it is to do it," Mr. Diefenbaker said. "Why should parliament not have this information?" He accused the government of refusing to give information on the matter. Mr. Pearson, who followed Mr. Diefenbaker in the throne speech debate, said it was a "serious charge" for the opposition leader to make. But he said Mr. Diefenbaker had only to look up a section of the RCMP Act that gave the cabinet power to set up an RCMP auxiliary.

Such a step had been taken by E. David Fulton when he was Mr. Diefenbaker's justice minister. "These regulations, which were never discussed in Parliament, were made by the government," Mr. Pearson said. "The prime minister continued, 'This was the kind of thing which was destroying Parliament and our constitution.'"

Pearson Plans To Pump Aid Into Social Security Plans

OTTAWA (CP)—A major program to pump extra federal aid into public welfare as one phase of his newly declared "war on poverty" was revealed in the Commons Tuesday by Prime Minister Pearson.

He called it "an important step in the development of Canada's social security system" and a companion measure to the Canada Pension Plan.

The shared-cost program, to be known as the Canada Assistance Plan, will be discussed at a federal-provincial welfare ministers' conference opening here Thursday.

Mr. Pearson, speaking in the opening of the eight-day throne speech debate, said the C.A.P. will have four parts, three of them entirely new:

—Revised old age assistance payments to cover the poor over 65 on the basis of need.

—Assistance to needy mothers and their dependent children.

—Payment of health care costs for the needy, to be split 50-50 with the provinces.

—Federal sharing of the costs of strengthening and expanding welfare services, enabling provincial and municipal welfare departments to hire more trained staff and thus provide more effective service.

The proposed division of costs was given only for the health care item. Others will presumably be discussed with the provincial ministers.

Nor was there any mention of the scale of payments to individual recipients, another item for the conference to tackle.

The prime minister put a price tag on only two of the four parts — $25,000,000 a year for an estimated 200,000 needy mothers and between $15,000,000 and $300,000,000 for health costs.

Under the new system of assistance, four present cost-sharing plans would be scrapped and gathered into one package, if the provinces agree. These are the pensions for the needy, aged, disabled and blind and the Unemployment Assistance Act.

There would no longer be an income limitation on assistance to the needy aged.

"As members know, federal sharing under the present program is limited to half of the $75 a month," Mr. Pearson said. "Under the proposed Canada Assistance Plan, payments could be based on an assessment of the recipient's needs."

This would be of particular benefit to those older people not able to benefit from the contributory Canada Pension Plan which is to start in 1966 and will not reach its full benefit-paying level for 10 years.

In cases of need, additional assistance will be available. The present program also is limited to persons between 65 and 69, cutting off those receiving the basic old age pension. The new one will apply to all over 65 who are shown to be in actual need.

LONDON (CP)—Conservative politicians and Tory newspapers are almost speechless with fury at the Labor government's announcement that it is cancelling the £750,000,000 (£2,250,000,000) TSR-2 supersonic aircraft project.

Official news of the cancellation came in Tuesday's budget speech by James Callaghan, chancellor of the exchequer.

Later, when Defence Secretary Denis Healey tried to make a statement on the decision to scrap the 1,400-mile-an-hour low level tactical bomber, the House of Commons degenerated into uproar.

Healey, interrupted by cries of "traitor" and "coward," took more than an hour to make a 15-minute statement.

Opposition Leader Sir Alec Douglas-Home promised an early censure motion against the government.

Healey explained that the planned production of 150 TSR-2s—about £125,000,000 already has been spent on two prototypes—was too costly for Britain in terms of money and skilled manpower.

Instead, an option had been secured on the United States F-111A swing-wing aircraft, formerly known as the TFX, at a saving of about $300,000,000 for the full program.

Tory members of Parliament jeered that the U.S. will be prepared to give the rival F-111A to Britain "at any price" to wreck the British aircraft industry.

Healey countered with the promise that the government will make every effort to find alternate jobs for the estimated 20,000 skilled workers now involved in the TSR-2 project. He said consultations had already begun to ensure there is no delay in deploying the specialist knowledge and skill in British industry.

He also suggested that a defence review scheduled for later this year might show there is no need for any British planes of the TSR-2 or F-111A type.

This statement was greeted with derisory laughter and continual cries of "betrayal" from the Conservative benches.

"DIMINISH EARNINGS" The Daily Telegraph says the announcement "may indirectly cripple our future prospects of selling aircraft abroad and thus diminish future export earnings."

The Daily Express says the government has cancelled "the most advanced military aircraft in the world" simply "to save £25,000,000 this year."

The Daily Sketch says scrapping the TSR-2 "is to scrap a fantastic feat of aeronautical engineering in favor of a dubious American plane which will cost us hard-earned dollars."

"Look how America's newest and fastest bombers were easily shot down on Sunday by aged Russian fighters. Not much of an advertisement for American planemakers."

Only Britain's newest daily, the Pro-Labor Sun, finds anything to applaud: "The government's decision to axe TSR-2 will mean temporary hardship for some, yet in the national interest it is wise and courageous."

MARTIAN CANALS The supposition concerning "canals" on Mars stems from the mistranslation of the Italian word for "grooves"—canali.

INTERPRETING WORLD EVENTS

Rumpus Over Berlin Has Artificial Look

NEW YORK (AP)—The new rumpus over Berlin has an artificial, improvised look.

It seems to fall short of real crisis. The Communist challenge is directed more at the West German government than specifically at the United States or the Western allies.

But fuses over Berlin come regularly every few years. In the past, the appearance of a Berlin crisis usually was a reflection of some sort of Soviet policy problem, domestic or foreign.

This time it is possible the East German Communists insisted something had to be done to challenge the West German Parliament's plan to meet in West Berlin Wednesday. But the East German interference with land and air traffic to the isolated city undoubtedly was undertaken with Soviet approval.

In each successive crisis, the Russians evidently have hoped to make some sort of permanent gain from sanctioning and supporting harassment of air and automobile traffic. Each time they have pulled up short of the dangerous showdown with the United States and the West.

GO CAREFULLY This time Soviet policy makers, who have not been accomplishing much recently, might see some advantages in carefully heating up the Berlin atmosphere, but the operative word is "carefully."

Since they have been barred from any really effective endeavor in the Far East because of Chinese hostility to Russian influence there, the Russians have been focusing their attention on Western Europe and on attempts to exploit divisions in the North Atlantic alliance.

The Kremlin has had much trouble in the world Communist movement. It has had difficulty keeping Communist East Europe in line. It has huge problems with its internal economy. It has made no spectacular moves on the world stage since the new regime took over from Nikita Khrushchev.

A Berlin fuss could demonstrate that the Kremlin's heart still is in expansion of Communist power—and there could be side benefits.

EXPLOIT DISUNITY In the past, in times of disunity among the Western allies, Moscow has tried to take advantage. There are appearances of disunity now. There are differences over policy in Viet Nam. There is President de Gaulle of France and his attacks on the U.S. dollar, and his hostility to U.S. economic power and U.S. leadership in Europe.

Moscow has been astiduously courting de Gaulle. After West German Chancellor Adenauer left office and the euphoria of French-German reconciliation gave way to a new coolness, the Communist camp may have seen possibilities for small but important gains in renewing pressure on vulnerable West Berlin.

But France, too, is committed to West Berlin remaining free of communism, and the Russians are unlikely to permit the tension to go too far.

NEW YORK'S THREATENED STRIKE Averted With Offer To Printers

NEW YORK (AP)—A New York City newspaper strike was averted today.

Negotiators for publishers and the printers' union, which had threatened a strike at any time against one or more of seven major newspapers, reached a contract settlement that included a money package of $12 a week during the term of a two-year contract and also agreement on automation and other issues.

The publishers said they would offer the same economic package to the nine other unions in the newspaper industry here.

Shortly after the printers' agreement was announced by Mayor Robert F. Wagner at 2:10 a.m., negotiations resumed between the publishers and four other unions.

Wagner was also instrumental in settling the 11-day newspaper strike two years ago which was sparked by the printers.

REPRESENTS PAPERS The Newspapers Publishers Association of New York City represented the seven city newspapers: The Daily News, Times, Herald Tribune, Journal-American, World-Telegram and The Sun, Long Island Daily Press and Long Island Star-Journal.

The papers have about 17,000 employees and combined daily circulation of 4,400,000 weekdays and 6,000,000 Sundays.

The Post, the city's eighth major newspaper of general circulation, negotiates with the union separately. The Post withdrew from the Publishers' Association.

2. Respond to fears and criticisms about U.S. policy that have been expressed by public figures in the United States and government leaders abroad.

One of the chief points of criticism is that the conflict in Southeast Asia could get out of hand and explode into a big war.

3. Indicate some of the U.S. guidelines for an approach to negotiations and the issues that would have to be resolved in reaching a successful agreement.

The supposition concerning "canals" on Mars stems from the mistranslation of the Italian word for "grooves"—canali.

Red Cross '65 Campaign Above Quota of $11,000

CITY PAGE
Wednesday, April 7, 1965 The Daily Courier Page 3

Present City, District Totals Show Drive $500 Above Goal

The Kelowna and district Red Cross Society, campaign for donations to Box 219, Kelowna, has surpassed by $500 for to the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

There are 32 volunteer captains and leaders who organized the campaign and more than 300 volunteers who canvassed during March. All this was done so the society can provide such special services as free blood transfusions, clothing to needy families, free dental and eye care, medical attention, surgery and patient transportation for needy children.

The provincial quota is $655,000 and all money collected will be used for special services in the province.

Special services also include help to needy families as a result of fire or minor disasters, water safety courses, loan equipment, and emergency bureaus.

The Red Cross provides numerous services and the society is most grateful to the people in the district who helped in any way during the campaign," Mr. Manning said.

Plans in Offing For Flying Club

Plans are shaping up for a flying club, either to have recreation spots or on business.

An organizational meeting, to discuss the matter will be held Thursday night at 8 p.m. in the Royal Anne hotel.

Major Parkinson, when advised of the meeting, said the Kelowna Aviation committee would welcome the establishment of a club in the area.

There are a very large number of private flyers in Kelowna, he said, and although we do have as many clubs as any major city, there is still place for a flying club.

Properly run, the camaraderie that goes with "hangar flying" can have a deep effect on wholesome community spirit. Flying clubs, where they are established, are an integral part of the community.

In another way they could assist the aviation committee. We have for a long time tried to have regular flyers at Kelowna airport, but could not get them.

"These are one of the more interesting and exciting functions of a flying club and we look forward to many of them," he said.

A flying club is basically a group of air-minded people who fly for fun. Many club members also use aircraft for travelling.

At least one aircraft is now available for club use, and that fact will be under discussion Thursday night. It is possible the club will have the use of a hangar and a number of other facilities provided arrangements can be made with the city.

Recently a number of former flying club members have moved to Kelowna and some of them have their own planes.

Vince Walters, formerly of Victoria, owns a Cessna 180. He, his wife, son and daughter all fly and recently the family received national publicity when the four of them went flying to Kelowna. At that time they were all members of the Aero Club of B.C.

Deane Turcotte, a former member of the Waterloo-Wellington Flying Club, Gordon Mitchell and Bob Kite are others who will be present at the meeting, along with Kelowna people who are pilots.

"This art competition is the first the society has sponsored," she said. The theme is "Okanagan Industry" or "Okanagan Landscape."

Three prizes of $15, $10 and $5 each will be awarded to the student with the best painting.

"The deadline is June 1 and all entries will be displayed in the Okanagan Regional Library, Kelowna from June 1-15. The judges are two artists from the Kelowna area and Mrs. Gwen Lamont, an executive member of the society is in charge of arrangements," said Mrs. Sherlock.

MEDIA

Mrs. Lamont said the media of the painting will range from water to poster and pastel.

"All paintings will be colored as this is a definite attraction in art and an important part of a picture."

The minimum size of the picture will be 15 by 20 inches and may be drawn and painted either way up. The paintings are to be larger than the minimum size," Mrs. Lamont said.

Students can hand in the drawings to their teacher or bring them to the library a week before the deadline date.

NAME

The name of the artist must be placed on the front lower right hand corner.

"The grade and school of the student must be placed on the back of the painting."

The deadline is June 1, to give students a chance to make use of their Easter holidays for some sketching out-of-doors.

The title chosen gives the student much scope to work with such ideas as parking-house, logging and orchard industries to figures and scenery."

Mrs. Lamont said the winner will be announced June 2.

Rutland Man Dies At Home

Requiem High Mass was held Thursday, April 1 at 10 a.m. in St. Theresa's Catholic Church, Rutland for Michael Diogus, 60, who died at his home in the Ellison district Monday, March 29.

Rev. Father George Hart conducted the mass and burial followed in Kelowna cemetery. Prayers and rosary were recited in St. Theresa's Church of Remembrance, Wednesday, March 31.

Mr. Diogus was born in Poland in 1904 and married the former Dorothy Simla. They moved to Coleman, Alta., 29 years ago where Mr. Diogus mined for 14 years.

In 1943 they moved to Kelowna and lived in the Ellison district.

Surviving Mr. Diogus are his wife Dorothy, one son, John, and four grandchildren.

Palbearers were Yash Terada, Kantz Holotky, Walter Simla, Alex Jurosovich, Tibor Neudermeyer and Elim Bregada. Day's Funeral Service Ltd. was in charge of arrangements.

Visitor And Convention Bureau Aiming For More Conventions

The aim for 1965, of the Visitor and Convention Bureau of the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce, is to bring more conventions to this city. W. T. J. Bulman, chairman, said today.

"We have 42 conventions booked to date," said Mr. Bulman, "which is equal to the total number of conventions held in Kelowna in 1963."

"We are aiming for 70 conventions this year in 1964 we had 46. Even the 42 booked to date, represents 8,000 delegates, spending an estimated $828,000 in Kelowna."

"These convention figures are in addition to the number of visitors to Kelowna. An estimated 201,510 people visited this city between July 1-Sept. 15, spending an estimated $3,355,000. This year we intend to reach $4,500,000 with 150,000 visitors."

"In order to attract more conventions to Kelowna we have increased our budget to permit hiring a female clerk and some office equipment."

"An active rotating file will be established of over 1,500 conventions which are held regularly in the Pacific Northwest. We will solicit these conventions and follow them up in a business-like manner."

"We have prepared 500 new convention brochures showing what Kelowna has to offer as a convention city. These will be sent out to people planning conventions at the executive level."

"We will also try to have visitors to Kelowna arrive earlier and stay later. We have 50,000 new brochures describing our attractions. They will go out to every enquiry received. For the first time we will try a direct mailing program to householders in a coastal city."

The bureau will continue programs carried out in 1964, such as the Visitor of the Week promotion. This promotion was done for eight weeks in July and August. A family is chosen each week and given a tour of the city, free meals and gifts.

The Grape Festival, sponsored by the Kelowna Rotary Club was an idea conceived by the convention bureau. It will be an annual event. The first one was held Oct. 2-3, 1964.

"The automatic telephone answering service listing all the entertainment in the city for tourists, will be continued this summer again."

"We are planning a Spring Blossom time promotion for May 1-15, aimed at bringing visitors from Calgary. We hope service clubs will plan entertainment events during these two days."

Coordinator of the Visitor and Convention Bureau is H. K. "Bob" Gordon. Mr. Bulman said.

"Future" Orchard Preview Given At Rutland Meeting

RUTLAND—Fruit growers of the Rutland-Elision BCFA Local, and a number of visiting growers from other parts of the Kelowna area, were given a preview of the "Orchard of the future" at a very well attended meeting at Rutland Hall, Rutland, Tuesday.

The moderator of the panel discussion was Frank Morton, Kelowna horticulturist.

Members of the panel were Dr. D. V. Fisher and Dr. Donald Heinicke of the Summerland Research Station, John Smith, supervising horticulturist, Kelowna area, and Craig Brownlee, soil survey branch, Kelowna.

The orchard of the future, as portrayed by the speakers, will be a high producing unit, with semi-dwarf trees, planted as closely as 200 to the acre, and possibly in rows, close together like a vineyard, with pickers being transported along the rows in a trailer, picking fruit from one side of each tree.

The fruit trees themselves, with the present trends toward highly spurred types, with a minimum of branches, would no longer be the high spreading trees prevalent today. The orchard of tomorrow might even bear more resemblance to a vineyard with the tree branches suspended on wires.

TREND

Less extreme, but more immediate, is going to be the trend to closer planting of semi-dwarf trees. Emphasis will be on growing a tree capable of absorbing the maximum of sunlight, and with the minimum of shaded area, where the poor colored fruit grows. The apple tree will bear more resemblance to a Christmas tree than the present upper branches which will be trimmed back hard, to allow more light to get to the fruit.

Packed House Watches Play

A packed Kelowna Community Theatre Tuesday night watched "Stop The World. I Want To Get Off" presented by the Playhouse Theatre Company.

The two-hour show headlined D. M. Hughes, Barbara Jay, nine other women and little Brad Anderson.

Littleship, played by Mr. Hughes, began life in a circus tent and ended as a member of the House of Lords.

The production, on the first tour of the interior by the company, was brought to Kelowna under the auspices of the University Women's Club.

Other members of the cast were Karen Fawcett, Louise Glenne, Gail Hill, Donna Rae, Rene Bernsten, Renee Cherrier, Carol Nage, Susan Anderson and Jane Needler.

The show was directed by Malcolm Black.

MUSICALLY SPEAKING

With BETHEL STEELE

Sunday... all day... I spent with the Okanagan Valley Symphony, more or less. We were at Pentlitz and the occasion was the first concert of the current spring season of three at Pentlitz, Kelowna and Vernon.

Our concert is this coming Saturday and busy times to the contrary, any one who misses this musical event for any reason whatever will have deprived himself of a musical revelation.

I have been praising this group for the last six years first because it has been so sincere in its effort and secondly because I was always honestly able to find something good to write about.

More important than anything else this orchestra is the outstanding cultural effort in our Valley. Upon its success hinges everything we do in the arts as a part of the revolution in education which is taking place in our western civilization.

The orchestra represents the discipline about which every one talks but which is lacking in nearly every facet of our daily endeavor.

Sunday it was as if I had walked out of the fog into the sunshine. I had spent four days, with the Drama Festival, which in themselves were wonderful and very revealing. But here was something different because everyone seemed to know what he was doing.

The word for it is technique. These are people who, to be able to participate to the smallest degree, have had to master the disciplines of his instrument; others more perhaps than some. And yet the whole for that reason becomes the orchestration of which we have heard so much during the last week.

And so we can say, out of technique the orchestra, let no man deny it. There is the how and the why in everything we do whether it is the playing of a musical phrase or the articulation of a line from a play.

Lieut. Leonard Camplin has brought our orchestra full circle. It is now an instrument and he is playing upon it. Simply perhaps but nonetheless a true performance.

The first desk players and Lieut. Camplin's five men take to the pit to accompany Gwendolyn Lloyd's Canadian School of the Ballet. As Miss Lloyd stated, "this man knows what he is doing. This alone is enough to make attendance worthwhile."

The Beethoven Piano Quintet with Janet Henrikson of Vernon at the piano with the four Royal Canadian Engineers' professionals could hardly be lovelier. This is early Beethoven, fresh and transparent. It receives the reading it deserves.

I wish the orchestra society for Kelowna would open the doors this coming Saturday night to all the young people who might be interested but unable to afford the admission price. Can't we somehow, somewhere overcome that awful necessity for financial success for the sake of our boys and girls? They are all so wonderful and so wanting. If we will only give them a chance.

I wonder why there weren't more students present last week? Perhaps we don't make them welcome enough. It is worth looking into.

Clouds Forecast For Okanagan

Cloudy skies are expected in the Okanagan Valley today with a few sunny periods. The Vancouver weather office said.

Scattered showers are expected this afternoon mainly over the mountain ridges. Sunny weather is expected Thursday with cloudy periods in the afternoon.

Temperature readings in Kelowna, Tuesday, showed a high of 47 and a low of 26. A year ago the high-low reading was 62 and 31 the Kelowna volunteer weather observer said today.

A low pressure area traveling southward off the British Columbia coast has caused rain over much of the south coast and the Queen Charlottes during the night and this morning.

Rain in the wake of the weather system will ease off to a few showers later today the weather office said.

Low tonight and high Thursday at Pentlitz is expected to be 28 and 55 the weather office said.

Indoor "Pool" Group Elects New Chairman

Dr. Gerald Stewart, Kelowna, was elected chairman of the Kelowna indoor swimming pool and recreation society at their first regular monthly meeting in the park-and-recreation board room, Monday, Jack Brown, recreation director said today.

Special guest at the meeting was Grazianno Sovereign, North Vancouver. He presented an architectural drawing of a 25 meter pool, house in a dome-shaped building made of gunite construction, reinforced concrete. The estimated cost of the pool with dressing rooms is $150,000.

The next regular meeting will be Monday, May 3, at 8 p.m. in the board room," said Mr. Brown. "All interested people are welcome to attend."

Legion To Honor Vimy Ridge Vets

Vimy Ridge veterans in Kelowna, Branch No. 28, Royal Canadian Legion, will be honored at the 26th annual Vimy Ridge dinner, Friday, April 9, at 6:30 p.m. in the legion hall and will be followed by special entertainment, arranged by J. E. (Al) Byers, and a film entitled "Battle of Vimy."

The dinner begins at 6:30 p.m. in the legion hall and will be followed by special entertainment, arranged by J. E. (Al) Byers, and a film entitled "Battle of Vimy."

The normal attendance is about 250 members of the legion, 60 of them Vimy Ridge veterans," said Mr. Earl.

"The women's auxiliary will cater to the dinner and the legion will sponsor it," said Mr. Earl.

PLEBISCITE CALLED FOR APRIL 10 ON PROPOSAL-IV

Okanagan College Explained

Editor's Note: On April 10 people in the Okanagan will vote on a plebiscite. The single question will ask if the voter is in favor of his school district establishing a college for the Okanagan. In an effort to inform the public, The Kelowna Daily Courier will run daily stories in the question and answer form on the proposal as it stands now.

Q. Why should the regional college teach technological subjects when a vocational school exists at Kelowna? Do the programs of the Vocational School and the proposed regional college overlap?

A. No. The Vocational School offers "job training" as such rather than a broadly based academic or technological education. The courses tend to be more limited in scope and are generally short term. Their purpose is to offer training skills, which will lead immediately to employment in the trades and other skilled manual occupations. They also retrain people displaced by technological change.

Q. Will graduation from the regional college help one find a job?

A. The multipurpose regional college can play a vital role in preparing students for immediate employment in technical and semi-professional positions at the end of two years and in retraining adults for new jobs created by an automated economy. In this age of automation, an increasing range and number of positions require training at the post-high level of at least two years' duration. Norman C. Harris, professor of technical education at the University of Michigan, points out that an elementary education or less in 1930 was adequate for 58 per cent of the employed population, a high school education sufficed for 32 per cent. Projections of the future show that during the 1970's, 50 per cent of the labor force will require education equivalent to graduation from a regional college, and an additional 18 per cent will require university graduation.

Q. What is the difference between capital and operating costs? Who pays these costs?

A. Costs can be divided into two main areas: Capital costs and operating costs. Legislation and the Agreement between the co-operating school boards apportion the basis for the sharing of these costs.

Capital costs are the cost of buildings and equipment. These costs will be shared by the provincial government and the local taxpayer on a 50-50 basis after any grants from the federal government have been deducted. There is a real possibility that the federal government will share substantially in the cost of building and equipment that portion of the college devoted to technical-vocational education. Under the terms of a dominion-provincial agreement, the federal government will pay 75 per cent of the cost of approved facilities. This could reduce the cost to local taxpayers substantially.

Capital funds to be supplied by the provincial government and local taxpayers will be raised in the same manner as for regular school purposes, that is, by the sale of debentures. These debentures will be retired over a twenty year period. The local school boards will include appropriate amounts in the annual school levies for their share.

Costs of operating the college will be shared on the same basis 50-50 formula. Again, these costs may be reduced by federal contributions. There are two possible sources of federal income. First, it is expected that a portion of the federal per capita grants to the provinces on behalf of post secondary education will be available to the college. Secondly, federal funds are available for operating technical-vocational programs under a number of formulas mutually agreed to by the provincial and federal governments. It is fully expected that the technical-vocational programs offered by the college will qualify for such funds.

The legislation provides that fees charged to students will be credited against the local share of operating costs. Considering all these factors, it is quite probable that the local taxpayers' share of operating costs will be less than one quarter of the total.

Water Pollution Concern Of Every Citizen

The subject chosen by government wildlife agencies in Canada for special attention during National Wildlife Week, April 4 to 10, this year, deals with the serious question of water pollution. Again, in 1965, the Canadian Wildlife Federation and its member organizations are providing leadership for a nation-wide program based on the theme "Help Stop Water Pollution." This newspaper is pleased to support this program by encouraging its readers to take a stand against continuing abuse of our precious water resources.

Statistics of the world's supply of fresh water show Canada to be one of the world's most favored nations. The Great Lakes alone contain almost one quarter of the earth's total quantity of fresh surface water. Canada's rivers pour about two and one half million cubic feet of water into the sea every second. If it seem incongruous, therefore, that many parts of Canada are desperately short of clean, usable water, the explanation lies in the degree to which we have taken for granted the very resources with which we are so abundantly blessed. But we do have water pollution problems in all of the populated portions of the land. From the coast of Newfoundland where oil-soaked carcasses of sea birds drift ashore, through the heavily industrialized complex of the Lower Great Lakes-St. Lawrence, even the rivers that traverse the sparsely-populated prairies, to the rivers that flow westward into the Pacific, pollution is creating serious problems.

It is as though pollution had overtaken us unawares, like the tortoise that kept on with the race while the hare slept. Our abundant supply of water was more than adequate for a nation of ten million sparsely-distributed people engaged largely in primary production from farming, forestry, mining and fishing. The natural purifying properties of water allow it to accept a certain amount of pollution without real impairment of its quality. Local problems developed only in centres of concentration of population or the vicinity of particular industries.

The mushrooming populations and rapid industrialization that followed World War II created conditions which were new and quite different. Two decades of rapid change from rural to urban living and from primary production to industrial complexity have found us poorly prepared to deal with our new problems. Sewage treatment plants designed for the relatively simple task of treating human wastes could not be expected to cope with the hundreds of new chemical wastes which are the by-products of modern industrial production. Municipal resources, both financial and technological, needed to be bolstered. Provincial governments are now providing some of the necessary research, leadership and legislation, but it is surprising how much of this has been developed within only the past 10 years. The problem was allowed to get a long way ahead of us. It will take special efforts to catch up the lost ground—or should we say "lost water."

Municipalities have been caught in a squeeze, with costs of education and other services rising more rapidly than assessments. In most provinces there is now available limited financial assistance to municipalities from provincial treasuries. The federal government offers assistance through loans from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for capital costs of sewage treatment plants. Twenty-five per cent of the CHMC loan is in the form of a grant, but neither loan nor grant is available for constructing or enlarging sewage collector systems. Some municipalities need more help than they are getting—many need only the insistent urging of their own citizens who must express their willingness to pay for the right to enjoy clean water.

Some types of industry pose tremendous problems in pollution control. Often it is necessary to carry out extensive research into methods of neutralizing these wastes at reasonable cost. Recovery of useful by-products may reduce costs of treatment, and may even turn a profit, after research has shown the way. But research in this field has lagged far behind the mushrooming problem. Surely this is an era in which the federal government should be providing leadership and assistance.

The present backlog of industrial pollution yet to be dealt with is such that we cannot afford to let the problem grow larger. New industries and new products must be prepared to accept treatment of their effluent as part of the cost of production. Concerted efforts must be made to help establish industry find effective, economically feasible ways of cleaning their effluents. Use of some of the more persistent pesticides, which eventually find their way into watercourses, must be curtailed.

Progress is being made toward solving some of Canada's pollution problems. But is this progress rapid enough? The future offers even greater concentration of industry and population in the areas where pollution is already a problem. More water will be needed where useable water is already in short supply. Canada's industrial heartland, from Windsor to Quebec City, presents an outstanding example of the magnitude of the problem. While the International Joint Commission and the governments of two provinces and nine states wrestle with the problems of pollution in the Lower Great Lakes, responsible authorities wonder whether it is not already too late to save the water supplies. The same question is being asked in many other parts of Canada.

It is not too late if we face up to our responsibilities and show our preparedness to pay for correcting our mistakes. Industry and governments at all levels must be subjected to the goading of an aroused and enlightened public. Water pollution is not just a matter for the concern of organizations like the Canadian Wildlife Federation. While fish, wildlife and outdoor recreation are certainly threatened by abuse of water resources, so is human health and the future growth and development of the nation. Water pollution is a problem requiring the attention of every Canadian.

What do you know about water pollution and water supply in your community? Ask questions of your public utilities, public health and waterworks authorities. How clean is the water entering the water supply for your community? What kind of treatment do domestic sewage and industrial wastes receive before they are returned to watercourses? Is there evidence of pollution endangering human health or harming fish, wildlife and recreation resources? Are bathing beaches sometimes closed because of pollution? If the answers to these questions are less than satisfactory, you will know that it is your clear duty to demand action that will "Help Stop Water Pollution."

TWO-FRONT WAR

End Of Long Trail Reached By Secret Agent James Bond

LONDON (CP) — Well, it's happened at last. James Bond has made what must positively be, as the old vaudeville stars used to say, his final appearance.

The world's most famous secret agent, whose fans number millions and included such an eminent figure as the late President Kennedy, has fought his last case against the enemies of Her Majesty's secret service.

After The Man With The Golden Gun, just published by Jonathan Cape, there won't be any more Bond adventures.

This was Ian Fleming's last book. The former journalist and naval intelligence officer was correcting the proofs at his Kent seaside retreat last August when he died of a heart attack, aged 54.

The Man With The Golden Gun is the 13th in a series of books, paperbacks and movies, beginning with Casino Royale in 1953 and continued with a regular new Bond book each spring.

Bond made Fleming one of Britain's wealthiest writers. Before his death he estimated he had made 11,500,000 from the books, paperbacks and movies. Ironically, he was expecting 1965 to be the year when the real wealth would begin to flow from the Bond movies starring Sean Connery.

Some fans may be disappointed in the latest and last Bond adventure. After a gripping start, with a brainwashed Bond trying to assassinate his secret service chief, M, the action seems to lack its old complex inventiveness. It's a straightforward tale of Bond rehabilitating himself as a secret agent after his lapse, with no ingenious plots to hold the world to nuclear ransom, as in Thunderball, or to rob Fort Knox, as in Goldfinger.

BIRD HAVEN

Bylot Island off the northern coast of Baffin Island has been declared a migratory bird sanctuary by the Northern Affairs department. The island's 4,200 square miles is the summer home of 60 per cent of the world's greater snow geese. A third of it is permanent ice cap but grass grows on the southwestern portion. The greater snow goose is hunted only in the fall at Cap. Tourmentie, the only major stopping grounds for the birds between the island and their winter haunts along the southern U.S. Atlantic coast. Shaded area shows the flyway followed by the birds. Mineral exploration on Baffin Island prompted declaration of the sanctuary. (CP Newsmag).

It could be that Fleming's long streak of invention was wearing thin. Not long before his death he told a friend that new plots and settings for the Bond were getting difficult to find.

USEW FAN-FETTERED

At one time his books gave a convincingly authentic impression of such settings as the Moscow he depicted in the novel SMERSH, the murder arm of the Russian secret service which Fleming maintained had once really existed.

In the last books, reviewers sensed a lack of this "masade" quality. Fleming was criticized for ever more fantastic plots that failed to suspend the reader's disbelief, though his vivid, visual writing and expertise on such matters as cars, weapons, sports gear and Japanese poison plants remained as compelling as ever.

But if Bond has made his last bow, the world has not heard the last of him. Later this spring Fleming's publishers are bringing out The James Bond Dossier by novelist Don King-Kelly Ames, a critical assessment of the high-living counter-espionage and his place in the folklore of the 20th century.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

You're Not Nutty
Reader Assured

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner: Many times I have been tested, both knees and heels, for reflexes. I have none. Neither does my daughter. She was told by a friend that a person who has no reflexes is either crazy or has a venereal disease.

Since neither of us has a venereal disease, we must both be nuttier than a fruit cake.

No doctor has told us what this lack of reflexes means. Will you?—MRS. M.B.

It means nothing if otherwise you are in good health. True, the conditions you mention are present in some cases of absent reflexes, but not in all. In fact, some very healthy people are found to have either weak or absent tendon reflexes (that's when the doctor whacks you gently near the kneecap or in certain other spots).

In some cases, underactive thyroid may reduce the reflex. In other cases, certain neurological disorders may be indicated by noting the degree of reflex—but taking other symptoms into consideration, too.

In still other cases, the reflexes may be overactive. If the reflex response on one side of the body is markedly greater than on the other, it can be quite significant, but this, again, lies primarily in the realm of neurology.

People tend to be too worried over whether the knee jerks too much or too little with this test. Yet they don't realize that some more basic tests are being made at the same time, such as noting the patient's gait, color, breathing, mental reactions or a lot of other things. When a patient thinks too much about having the "proper" knee reflex, he may make the reflex too strong, or may suppress it and make it too weak. We have our ways of guarding against this.

To sum up, Mrs. M.B., I think both you and your daughter "have all your marbles," so forget it.

Dear Dr. Molner: Each summer I am literally eaten up by chiggers, fleas, etc. What can I do to lessen this problem? Would it be effective to take shots in advance? Or anything I could eat? Some people are not bothered with them. Why?—MRS. L.E.I.

I don't know of any shots or diet to repel chiggers or most other insects. Why some people are bothered by chiggers and others aren't, I can't say. People who are bite-bait should stay away from beaches, lawns or wooded areas where the insects abound. If you suspect that you have been in an infested area, a prompt bath or shower with general rubbing will help because it takes a bit of time for chiggers to burrow into the skin. Putting and polish on the itchy red spot kills the chigger.

Keep legs and arms well covered when in suspicious areas, because a chigger can't bother you unless he can get through chinks in your armor (clothing). Finally, but not least, use any of a variety of insect repellents which are on the market.

Dear Dr. Molner: How good are the pills they have for diabetes? I dread the thought of insulin injections.—A.E.F.

The pills are very good—the right cases. In others, insulin injections are the only answer. Sure, taking a pill is easier, but your doctor will tell you what is best for you, so follow his advice. Insulin injections aren't to be "dreaded." They're a nuisance, but when they mean the difference between health and disaster, is there room to argue?

PRICE CHANGES WITH TIMES

Real Estate Value Booms

BIRMINGHAM, England (CP) — When the Doomday Book was written in 1085, Birmingham in civic government, had one big advantage in that it owns an unusually high proportion of land and buildings. Between 1920 and 1939 the city erected close to 52,000 houses and in 1944 it was quick to take advantage of a new compulsory purchase act to extend its holdings by another 981 acres.

It now controls some 135,000 dwellings and although another 6,000 units become available each year there still are 40,000 families on the waiting list—many of them overseas immigrants attracted by the industrial boom.

The impetus for the great redevelopment came with the post-war cleanup of buildings wrecked in the air raids aimed at knocking out the massive industrial heart of Britain.

Although nearby Coventry received much world-wide sympathy for the horrific bombing it took, the city of Birmingham, about three times bigger, actually suffered greater total damage.

Some 2,241 people were killed here, 3,101 were severely injured and 140,336 dwellings and 300 factories were damaged beyond repair in the 27 raids between August, 1940, and April, 1943.

Even today, driving through its streets, Birmingham still looks like a city recently under siege—although this time the hammer of the wreckers is responsible. Hardly a block is not in the process of being knocked down, cleared or rebuilt.

One thing that gave the planners a more-or-less free hand was the fact that Birmingham, built for convenience rather than beauty, had hardly any old buildings of architectural or historic merit that demanded their preservation.

But on the other side of the ledger, a major problem was the relocation of the myriad small industries dotted around the city that could not afford to establish themselves in expensive new quarters. So the city took a leaf out of Japan's book and built the first "multi-story factories" in Britain, multi-story buildings providing accommodation, heating and other services for a mixture of industries, some of them employing only three or four people.

It doesn't take a crowd to assure the presence of Christ, nor a multitude to do mighty things. One man plus Him spells final victory over everything.

PETER'S PATTERN

with PETER MUNOZ

A new era in baseball is in the offing for the Okanagan and it is long overdue in this writer's opinion. The development of an effective minor program, which is bearing fruit, will supply much-needed senior talent in the years to come.

This idea is not completely new to this area. Meagre attempts have been made in the recent past—in the last five or six years—to put such a plan into operation. At least this was the theory behind some expired teams and leagues. None were able to obtain a satisfactory foothold. Some managed to hang on precariously in junior or SOX M leagues. But Kelowna based clubs were not so fortunate.

But this time a whole new concept has been incorporated into the minor baseball scheme. Hank Tostenson, president of the newly formed University of Kelowna League has definite ideas about where these boys are headed.

They will provide the new blood necessary to senior ranks in the Valley in the future. And they will be conditioned to transition if Hank has his way. His goal is to groom these youngsters now to provide basic instruction and develop their talents so that when they reach 18 or so they will be able to step into senior company without being too outclassed. After they add a year or two experience they should become polished senior ball players in their own right.

Apparently the senior clubs themselves have realized the need for providing home-grown talent to replenish the ranks of retiring players of those who leave the area. It has always been a problem for these clubs to import the necessary men to fill holes in the roster. Kelowna particularly has had difficulty in recent years being able to entice and keep good ball players here. Very few have been able to obtain suitable employment and so move on to greener pastures.

Two prime examples last year were Larry Webster, the tricky southpaw who was lured to Port Huron by a job opportunity and George Brice, the fireballing right-hander from Victoria, who threw the bear for the latter. He left after that one memorable performance because no job was available here for him. His brother left, who doubles as a Lab's first baseman and pitcher also played it in before the end of the season because he was fed up with the lack of a suitable job.

All these losses hurt Labatts because they were unable to plug the gaps adequately. Now if some younger district boys were coming up they could be worked in with the veterans and build the club into a strong contender. It would also stimulate the sagging fan interest with the influx of hometown boys.

A properly nurtured minor program could funnel the top young developing ball players into senior ranks regularly. It would not only benefit the senior club but the youngsters themselves. It would create more desire in them to take up the game and feel they have somewhere to graduate to.

Now according to Hank, the liaison has been established between minor Valley senior clubs and the Kelowna Lab. Vets and Port Huron are definitely working in conjunction with the program and their Labatts have shown interest in the plan said Hank who also is doubling this season as general manager of the senior Labatts. He is in charge of obtaining players to fill some of the holes in the club.

The whole minor-senior picture seems now to be heading for a brighter future. The enthusiasm and the desire to have just a little hard work and in a few years the program should bear fruit. Could be just the shot in the arm the third baseball scene in the Valley needs. With the ideal climate—compared to almost any other area in this country—it's a shame the sport is at such a low ebb in these parts.

Don Drysdale Back In Form Hitting As Well As Pitching

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
As usual, Los Angeles Dodgers are serving notice on Don Drysdale, their ace right hander, that he can win his share of games for them this season—if he's prepared to do his own hitting.

That's nothing new for Drysdale. Practically all last season the Dodgers batsmen seemed to invite him to make it a do-it-yourself operation every time it was his turn to pitch in six of his losses they failed to get him a single run.

It looked like the same old story Tuesday night when the Dodgers and New York Yankees were locked in a scoreless tie after five innings. So Drysdale, leading off the sixth, marked one of Bill Stifford's deliveries beyond the leftfield fence to end a 17-inning runless streak for Los Angeles.

Al Ferrara, a rookie who obviously hasn't adapted himself to the Dodger battle plan, produced a punch homer in the seventh and Drysdale walked off with a 2-0 victory, his fifth of the spring training season without a defeat.

Milwaukee Braves battled 12 innings before losing to Washington Senators, 2-1. Catcher Mike Brumley had four hits and scored the winning run in the 12th when he doubled and then scored on Sandy Alomar's throwing error.

Rookie Allen, Philadelphia's Rookie of the Year last season, homered and doubled as the Phillies edged Kansas City Athletics 3-1.

HOMER ASSURES VICTORY
Rookie Chuck Harrison's second homer in as many days, a punch-out hit in the seventh inning, gave Houston Astros a 2-1 victory over Minnesota Twins. The Astros' Jimmy Wynn and the Twins' Jimmie Hall had tagged earlier homers.

Gaylord Perry became the first San Francisco pitcher to go all the way as the Giants edged Los Angeles Angels 6-2.

DON DRYSDALE

Detroit Tigers got two-run homers from Al Kaline and Don Demeter and shelved Cincinnati Reds 7-2. It was only the second homer this spring for Kaline.

Bill White's bad-hop double with two out in the third inning led to two runs as the world champion St. Louis Cardinals edged Baltimore Orioles 3-1. The hit scored Lou Brock, who had doubled, and then White came home on Ken Boyer's single.

Fred Whitfield unloaded a career-long home run in the second inning as Cleveland Indians came from behind for a 3-1 victory over Boston Red Sox. Lennox Green homered for Boston.

Chicago White Sox scored two victories with the varsity exploding for a seven-run seventh inning to beat Pittsburgh Pirates 7-6 and the B squad snapping New York Mets 3-1.

Tom McCraw's two-run homer against Pirate relief ace Al McBean clinched the Chicago uprising.

John Romano's two-run double off Warren Spahn in the second inning, keyed the B squad victory. Roy McMillan homered for New York.

Western Hockey Title Playoffs Following Regular Season Style

SCORE FOR PORTLAND

Then defenseman Claude Labrosse was sent off for spearing and Barlow got the winner while Victoria was still short handed.

MacFarland scored the chucker into an empty net at 19:10 after Victoria pulled goaltender Al Mullar in favor of another attacker.

Hershey Bears Clip Clippers

Kelowna Donor Assisted Skier

A ski enthusiast at Kelowna donated $500 towards expenses of Rod Hebron, 22, of Vancouver, a member of Canada's national ski team to enable him to go to the Quebec races.

But now the financial pressure is on again. Nancy Greene, 21, of Rossland, and Hebron, ran out of money several months ago. Their careers with the national team depends on a public fund-raising campaign.

"If we don't raise the money there's little doubt they're out," said Dave Jacobs, coach of the national team which is training at Notre Dame University.

"We need about $150,000 to keep the team together for the world championships in 1966."

SIX TROPHIES

Miss Greene last weekend beat the finest skiers of Europe and North America when she took home six of the seven women's trophies at the American International Ski meet at Crystal Mountain, near Seattle, Wash.

Both Miss Greene and Hebron are prime prospects for the world championships in Chile.

"Nancy ran out of money last February and Rod went to the Quebec races a while ago only because a ski enthusiast in Kelowna donated $500 to send him," said Jacobs.

Hebron was a member of the 1962 Olympics. He is a former U.S. combined champion, Canadian slalom and combined champion and Canadian giant slalom champion.

FEES

Each member of the team when it assembles here each fall, must donate $1,000 to pay for his room and board at the university, his tuition fees if he is going to the school and travel and other expenses to get to ski meets.

Jacobs said this fund is almost gone. Some team members will be able to raise their money for next year but others, like Miss Greene and Hebron, probably won't.

The government's national fitness council gave only $2,500 toward training the team this year.

George Duffus could hardly believe it when a man walked up to the $50 parimutuel window at the old Woodbine racetrack in Toronto and bet $500 across the board on Maternal Pride to win the Queen's Plate. That was $500 down the drain for somebody, he thought.

The better put down $200 to win, a similar amount to place and $100 to show on the three-year-old.

Duffus was the man behind the window that May 11 afternoon. He was amazed at the bet because a few months before he had made winter book for the first time and didn't give Maternal Pride a hope of winning the Canadian classic or even coming in for a part of the purse.

The horse, according to Duffus' reckoning, was a 25-1 shot.

It is history now that Maternal Pride, owned by Hugh S. Wilson of Toronto, won the nine-furlong race on a heavy track and became the longest-priced winner in Plate history. On a two-dollar wager, the prices were $183.35 for win, $35.45 for place and $43.65 for show.

It Takes A Deal Of Hard Work To Reach This High Standard

In addition to his winter-book work on the Plate he has been calling the morning line on all races at the three Jockey Club tracks — Greenwood (formerly old Woodbine) and Woodbine, both in Toronto, and Fort Erie, Ont., since 1950. His average for picking winners is "a shade over 40 per cent," he says.

How does he do it? By hard work over a 15-hour day, checking past performance charts, workouts and weights assigned.

He is at the track at 5:30 a.m. clocking the horses. He handles the early scratches at 6 a.m., making his morning line, handles the official scratches two hours later, adjusts his morning line and has it ready for the printer at 8:30 a.m.

He is a ticket seller at the $10 wicket in the afternoon, checks the Daily Racing form for three or four hours each night.

How does he do it on the frisky two-year-olds before they go to the races? "Simply by workouts, and this means I'm at the track early in the morning starting about the middle of February and clocking them every day until they make their first start."

Last year at Fort Erie, he picked nine consecutive winners. "I missed out on the first race, picked the next seven on the card that day and then picked the first two winners the following day."

He would have made a pocketful if he had bet on his choices. "I didn't. I rarely bet on the horses. Guess I'm too busy trying to figure them out."

New British Sports Scheme Termed "Penurious Mouse"

LONDON (CP)—A common reaction to the government's new Sports Development Council is that the mountain labored and brought forth a penurious mouse.

Establishment of the council has been welcomed as a preliminary step to boost athletics in Britain. But at the moment it is a purely advisory body. It has the responsibility for promoting amateur sport of all kinds but lacks the power to grant the funds to do the job properly.

Set up under chairmanship of Sports Minister Denis Howell, still a qualified soccer referee—the council arises from recommendations made by the Wolfenden royal commission on sport in 1960.

The report's findings were largely ignored at the time and neither the Conservative sports minister, Quintin Hogg, nor the present Labor government has authorized an annual grant of £5,000,000 for national sport as recommended in the report.

Duties of the 14 men and two women on the council are to advise on standards and provision of facilities and priorities in sports development, including training, coaching and research and the participation of British teams abroad.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY SARAZEN WON TOURNEY

Big Eagle Remembered

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—It's been 30 years—to the day—since Gene Sarazen copped his famous double eagle at the Masters golf tournament, and Gentlemen Gene has spent three decades separating fact from fiction.

"There weren't more than 200 people in the gallery when I made the shot," the squire from Germantown, N.Y., a bouncy 63, recalled today. "Since then, I've shaken hands with 10,000 people who insist they saw the shot."

The three-under-par shot was made on the then 485-yard, par 5, 15th hole in the last round of the second May 1935. The date was April 7, 1965.

Craig Wood was in the clubhouse with a 282. Sarazen was the only man with a chance to catch him, and the "chance" was infinitesimal.

"What do I need to win?" Sarazen asked his Negro caddy, Stove Pipe, as he came to the 15th.

"Let's see, you need 4s, Mr. Sarazen," Stove Pipe said. Par was 5-3-4-4.

Gene had a good 250-yard drive, but the lie was close. He and Stove Pipe decided on a four-wood for the 235-yard shot.

KNEW HE'D MAKE IT

"I rode into the shot with my ounce of strength," Stove Pipe said. "The split second I hit it, I knew it

"Scooters" Get Message As Hawks Thrash Wings

CHICAGO (CP)—The men who play for Chicago Black Hawks are all old enough and rich enough to drive convertibles. But they'll be considerably richer if they can keep their Scooters in operation.

The Scooters — Stan Mikita, Ken Wharram and Doug Mohns — are a forward line that produced 45 goals for the Hawks during the National Hockey League season.

Then, in the first round of the Stanley Cup playoffs, the Hawks lost the first two games to Detroit Red Wings and coach Billy Reay fingered the Scooters as the men who would have to do better.

They did in Chicago Tuesday night and the Hawks thrashed the Wings 5-2 in the third game of the best-of-seven semi-final. Mikita, Wharram and Mohns contributed two goals and five scoring points to the victory after getting only two points, both assists by Mikita, in two games in Detroit.

Mikita, who has the habit of winning the NHL scoring championship and then slumping in the playoffs, scored along with Mohns. Mikita also had one assist and Wharram had two. And Bill Hay, who had a disappointing 11-goal season, must have gotten Reay's message too because he came through with a goal.

HULL GOT TWO

Bobby Hull, the reliable standby, scored twice — his fourth and fifth of the series — playing with a brace on his injured right knee Tuesday night. He had been wearing one on the left knee earlier in the series. Ted Lindsay, who returned to action this season after a four-year retirement, scored both goals for Detroit.

But the real secret of the Hawks' success Tuesday night was the bone-crushing attack they served on the Wings during the opening eight minutes. Hay checked veteran defenseman Bill Gadaby into the boards during the first minute, sending him to the dressing room for four stitches to his face.

Hay got a minor penalty but only a few seconds after leaving the box, he scored the opening goal and the Hawks were on their way.

Reay insisted after the game that the first eight minutes "took a lot out of us." However, the Wings agreed it took the game out of them.

CAN'T GIVE THREE

"You can't give away three playoff goals in eight minutes and hope to win," Detroit right-winger Bruce MacGregor said. Gordie Howe, the Wings' veteran super-star who has just completed his 10th NHL season, agreed.

"I had a chance to get us off to a fast start but he (Chicago goaltender Glenn Hall) made a good save," Howe said.

Howe didn't register in the points department but he did break the playoff penalty record of Maurice (Rocket) Richard, former Montreal Canadiens' great.

After taking three minor penalties, his total read 194 minutes, six more than Richard's mark.

THREE MISSING

The Wings played without services of forwards Val Fonteyne and Larry Jeffrey and defenseman Gary Bergman Tuesday night.

Fonteyne, with a pinched neck nerve, and Bergman, with a knee injury, are both doubtful starters for the fourth game of the series here Thursday night.

Jeffrey, in hospital in Detroit with an injured back, will not be back in the Detroit lineup until next week at least.

Coach Sid Abel dressed Bob Wall and Irv Spencer for Tuesday's game. Wall was summoned from the Memphis Wings of the Central Professional Hockey League and Spencer from Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League.

Both clubs will relax until the Thursday game. The fifth game is scheduled for Detroit Sunday night.

A Sort Of Mighty Midget Aims At Hold On Olympic Judo

DUTTON, Ont. (CP)—Sixteen-year-old Pat Bolger has his sights trained on an Olympic medal in judo.

A Grade 11 student in this village 15 miles southwest of St. Thomas, Pat is the first Canadian ever to capture a U.S. junior title in the sport, winning several bouts in Miami recently.

Standing only five-foot-six and weighing 148 pounds, he found that his size wasn't a disadvantage in the Miami championships. He tossed a 195-pounder, and two of his other victories were by pins.

On the strength of his U.S. showing and the fact that he is considered the top junior in Canada, Pat is expected to become a first-degree black belt soon. Top award-holder in judo is a 10th-degree black belt, but there are few of them around.

Pat's father, Frank, who teaches science at West Elgin District High School in Dutton, helped his son get started in the game.

TAUGHT BY EXPERT

"One of the boys at West Elgin bought a book on judo and they started practicing at school," he said. "The phys-ed teacher told them they had better learn the right way before someone got hurt."

So Frank took the boys to London along with nine-year-old Pat to work out under Tak Ozaki, who has been instructing the sport at a London YMCA since 1952.

Frank, who was then 35, and who had been on a wrestling team at the Ontario Agricultural College, took up judo so he could help the high school boys and his son.

So far, Pat, who wants to be a physical education teacher, has 28 trophies to show for his experience.

Right now, he's thinking of the Olympics. And although he may have to go a long way to match Doug Rogers, a silver medalist at Tokyo, at least his coach is optimistic.

"Technique is the big thing in judo," says Ozaki.

And he thinks Pat has it.

Pension Hike Applied For

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba legislature approved by a voice vote a resolution asking the federal government to increase old age pensions for those in need to $100 a month from $75. The motion was an amendment to a resolution by Morris Gray (NDP) — Inkster — who asked the old age pension be increased for all persons to $100.

APPROVE SCHOOL

MORE RIDERS

CALGARY (CP) — Mayor Grant MacEwan of Calgary was told Tuesday that while the city's transit system was gaining passengers there was no immediate assurance of a decrease in the system's deficit.

Leafs Win Their First Down Habs In Overtime

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs decline to be down quietly in the coffin that Montreal Canadiens have been building for them in the Stanley Cup hockey semi-finals.

The hammering Canadiens came within a blow of sailing down the third corner of the capitol here Tuesday night but Leafs kept kicking. They tried the ice back up with a 5-2 overtime win that left the best-of-seven series at 2-1 for the Canadiens.

Leafs, aiming for a fourth successive Stanley Cup, had spells of convincing power after showing signs of tired legs in the first two games at Montreal, won 3-2 and 3-1 by the younger Canadiens. But the defending champions even at their best never appeared to have everything going their way.

Andy Bathgate, who tied the game in the third period, forcing overtime, summed it up afterwards: "We were getting tired. We're getting new. But we've got to skate Thursday." That's the date of the next Leaf encounter with Canadiens.

Quicksilver Davey Keon gave Leafs a silver of light and air by picking up a loose puck and backhanding it past Gump Worsley into the Montreal goal at 4:11 of the first overtime period.

LEAFS WERE CHANGING

The climatic action developed as Leafs were changing men on the move.

Worsley had cleared the puck around the boards while Frank Mahovlich was drifting nearby. Mahovlich said later he shook the puck loose from defence-man J. C. Tremblay, and nudged Ted Harris out of danger.

Keon skated around Harris "to my backhand side" and said the puck past Worsley on the ice.

Mahovlich said later he deserved an assist on the goal, though it went in the record as unassisted.

Worsley figured something was wrong—apart from the fact that the puck got by him—and that icing or an offside should have been called.

Canadiens coach Toe Blake refused in a rage to say what he felt about the legality of the play that produced the winner, accusing a reporter of trying to needle him into blasting the referee.

Leafs opened the contest as if glad to be back home from Montreal, skating hard and outshooting Canadiens for the first 10 minutes and even depriving the Montreal power play of a shot on goal while Keon was off for slashing midway through the period.

But Jean Beliveau slammed a screen shot past a queue of Toronto stalwarts to sink a 25-foot shot at 17:02.

GAMBLE PAID OFF

Punch Imlach's gamble in playing penalty-prone Eddie Shack on regular line with Phil Ford and Tim Horton paid off as Shack counted for Leafs at 1:19 of the second period on a shot resembling Beliveau's.

Shack's shot, from about 30 feet out, was screened by a defensive file made up of Jacques Laperriere, Terry Harper and Claude Provost.

Henri Richard, the persistent and consistent Montreal centre, put Canadiens back in front at 47 seconds of the third period—his third goal of the series and his 20th in Stanley Cup playoff action.

Richard was beaten by Howe when he moved from behind the Leaf net and fired dead on, but he hurried the rebound off

Horton's stick and slammed it in the net on his second attempt.

Bathgate tied it up at 7:50 after a facoff, spinning around and firing forehand. Worsley said Terry Harper deflected the shot into the net.

Worsley — replacing injured Charlie Hodge in the Montreal goal—and Bower both robbed rival forwards blind numerous times.

Bower stopped 26 shots, Worsley 30, each handing one in overtime.

High School Bowling Popular "And Keeps Them Off Streets"

EDMONTON (CP) — High school bowling has caught the fancy of teen-agers because it gives them "something more to do than hang around street corners and cafes," says Cliff Healey.

Healey is chairman of the high school section of the Edmonton Fivepin Association and one of the association members who organized the first high school league in the city.

"We have more than 100 high school bowlers in our 15 leagues this year, about 100 more than a year ago," he says. "And the kids could give many of the adults in the senior leagues a lesson or two on good bowling."

Healey and his associates organized high school bowling in 1949.

"Gradually interest spread to other nearby centres. Once we got the thing organized on the provincial level it was simple to extend it to other Western provinces."

"We held our first telegraphic Western championship in the mid-50s. Each year the competition has become keener. The Calgary boys' team rolled 3,040 pins in a four-game block to take the team crown in 1963. That's a 252 average for the five players."

"So you can see the talent that's developing in these leagues. The kids would stand up pretty well in senior competition."

PLAYOFFS SPONSORED

A soft drink firm (Pepsi Cola) has joined forces with fivepin associations in each province to stage the annual provincial and Western championships.

The company underwrites expenses local associations can't meet such as transportation costs to the centre that stages the provincial championship, says Healey. This amounts to about $10,000 a year.

The provincial finals will be held April 24. The Alberta competition will be staged in Edmonton and about 220 bowlers, representing 28 zones will compete for both provincial and Western Canadian honours.

Each zone sends local champions in five events—boys' and girls' singles, boys' and girls' team and mixed team. Scores compiled in a four-game block are used to decide the provincial winners.

ANN LANDERS

Sunday Phone Calls Could Be Solution

Dear Ann Landers: My daughter-in-law lives by "the book." "The book" tell her it is the son's duty to write to his mother. I agree, but don't you feel there should be another chapter in the book saying if a son doesn't write to his mother (most sons are too busy making a living) it is perfectly permissible for his wife to write about the grandchild?

I can't be a cookie-jar-type of grandmother because I am a working woman with very little money and less time. Eight hundred miles separate me from my son and his family. So, please, Ann, publish this letter and perhaps other daughters-in-law will see it and take note—even if my own daughter-in-law does not—UNDER PRIVILEGED GRANDMOTHER

Dear U.P.: I don't know what book your daughter-in-law is living by unless it's one she wrote herself. Rare, indeed, is the son who writes regularly to his mother. Usually the daughter-in-law gets the words down on paper and endorses the soap opera. In MY book this comes under the heading of being a good wife.

Perhaps your daughter-in-law hates to write letters. A telephone call every other Sunday (station-to-station at a mutually convenient time) could be the permanent solution to this problem—and I strongly recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you had a letter in your column from "Joe", a non-drinker who got fed up with people who tried to force liquor on him at cocktail parties. His solution (pouring the drink into the nagger's pocket) was a pretty one, but he was justified since people must protect themselves against boozers as best they can.

Now, what can dieters do when the hostess keeps pushing food on them? One friend said to me last night, "Oh, I fixed the spaghetti and garlic bread just for you." (That's three pounds right there!)

Another friend always pleads, "Just taste it." Then she shoves the corn fritter under my nose. Of course, that breaks down my resistance and I eat it.

Is there a solution—short of doing a Mack Sennett and heaving the pie in the hostess' face?—HELP

Dear Help: Yes. Eat at home and tell your friends, "Doctor's orders."

People who accept dinner invitations are expected to eat what the hostess prepares.

Dear Ann Landers: I am going with a boy I will call Douglas. We are both 17. Douglas comes from a prominent, well-to-do family. His parents don't think I am good enough for him. The problem is that Douglas' curfew is earlier than mine and his folks get mad at me when he comes home late. Naturally I want to stay out as late as I can and so long as I have permission why shouldn't I? Am I right or wrong?—PICKED ON

Dear Picked: If you want to help Douglas maintain a peaceful relationship with his parents forget about YOUR curfew and see to it that he gets home in time to honor HIS. This will not only make life easier for Douglas, but it will demonstrate to his parents that you are a considerate, responsible girl—and not a troublemaker. They might even decide you are good enough for their Douglas.

brother Ronald Almsie, the bride was radiant in a full length gown of sparkling organza over peau de soie, fashioned with a scoop neckline, long kimono sleeves and a long skirt. A cloud of organza formed the train which was caught at the back of the Empire waist line with a tulle de rose rose, and a matching rose held her elbow length veil of French illusion net in place. She carried a bouquet of pink Baptiste roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Beverly Snowsell, and the bride's sister, Miss Evelyn Ann Witt, who was bridesmaid, were charming in dresses of pale aqua sparkle organza. The simple bodices featured long full sleeves caught at the wrist with tiny cuffs. The knee-length skirts were gathered at the waist line and their head-dresses were matching roses trimmed with French veiling and they carried colonial bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Attending the groom were Ronald McKenna of Merritt and Fred Powell of Vancouver, and ushering were Roy Warman, Ralph Horton, George Dasi and Gordon Porter all of Kelowna.

At the reception which followed the ceremony in the Aquatic Lounge the mother of the bride received wearing a suit of navy blue wool knit her accessories were navy and white and she wore a corsage of white gardenias. The groom's mother chose a pale blue suit with white accessories and also wore a corsage of white gardenias.

The toast to the bride was proposed by her uncle Samuel McLarnin of South Burnaby and was aptly answered by the groom, and Ronald McKenna gave the toast to the bridesmaids.

Pink and white flowers and tall pink tapers decorated the bride's table which was covered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with miniature tulle.

Out of town guests attending the ceremony included the bride's uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. S. J. McLarnin of South Burnaby, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Forties and Fred Powell of Vancouver, Ronald Almsie of North Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. John Kraft of Port Huron, Mr. and Mrs. Ross McKenna of Merritt and Mr. and Mrs. J. Shaw of Chilliwack.

Before leaving on her honeymoon to Yellowstone Park the bride donned a princess lace dress of blue, a blue gros grain ribbon hat, black velvet accessories and a coat of white knickerbocker with a corsage of pink carnations.

The newlyweds will reside in Kelowna.

Two engagements are announced by the Canadian Union College Wind Ensemble and Dorian Singers.

At the Youth's meeting held Saturday in the afternoon they presented selections from Handel's Messiah. Soloists were Dorothy S. Chaffin, soprano; Sheila Moore, contralto; Sharon Laughlin, soprano; Bart Stenlund, tenor, and the Wind Ensemble rendered several sacred numbers.

In the evening at the Rutland high school auditorium in smart brown and gold uniforms the band, under the baton of Lloyd Fisher, presented some stirring selections. The choral group, directed by Donovan French, former instructor in English and choir director at the Okanagan Academy, presented a number of songs departing Spring and Winter.

The wind ensemble and the Dorian Singers combined for the closing number, "Happy Wanderer."

Mrs. Elaine Janzen presided at the piano.

The group of 45 left at 4:30 a.m. Sunday morning on a chartered bus for Williams Lake where they are to conduct another concert.

To many of these young people it was their first visit to the Okanagan. To others who had at one time lived here it was coming home again. Marvin Pinder, and Delmer Duncan have their homes here. The students

Many Young Canadian Children To Suffer Poisoning Accidents

OTTAWA (CP)—About 80,000 Canadian children under the age of five will be accidentally poisoned by common household drugs or cleaning substances this year, a federal health department doctor predicts.

Dr. J. B. Murphy, director of medical services for the federal food and drug directorate, says that although only a small percentage of the poisonings will result in death, thousands of children will be seriously hurt.

"Carelessness of parents is the cause of most of these accidents," says Dr. Murphy. Parents should know what substances are dangerous and keep them out of reach.

Most dangerous to children are the common ASA compounds (aspirin tablets). They account for 25 per cent of all poisonings.

Last year, Dr. Murphy estimates, 25 to 30 youngsters died after eating large quantities of these tablets. Thousands more were rushed to hospital to have their stomachs pumped out.

Dr. Murphy says the second biggest threat to children is household cleaners, floor waxes and oven cleaners.

Many of these substances are corrosive and can cause serious burns to a child's throat. Household lye is particularly dangerous.

Ordinary soap detergents are "not too dangerous." However, heavier detergents used in automatic washers have the same corrosive effect as lye.

WARNING ON SEDATIVES

A growing threat to children arises from sedatives, tranquilizers, "pop" pills and other drugs of this type, which Dr. Murphy says are being used in much greater quantities in an increasing number of Canadian homes. He believes drugs in this category are the third biggest cause of poisonings in children.

Dr. Murphy, who administers the food and drug directorate's poison control centre, says not all of the many poisoning accidents in Canada are reported to the centre.

But reports come in from 222 hospitals across the country and from them Dr. Murphy is able to estimate the number of poisonings for the entire country.

One important function of the poison control centre is to collect data on poisonous substances and their antidotes.

Dr. Murphy stresses that the only way to reduce accidental poisonings is for parents to be more careful in storing poisonous substances where children cannot reach them.

In line with this, an educational program is being carried on by the Consumers Association of Canada in co-operation with the Canadian Manufacturers of Chemical Specialties.

A bright yellow pamphlet distributed by the two organizations, called Your Guide to the Sensible Use of Chemical Products.

sets in the home, says most household chemical products sold in Canada are completely safe for their intended use.

"But there is a small proportion of household products which carry an inherent hazard."

The rules to prevent accidental poisonings are few and simple, says the booklet. "Read the label. Store hazardous substances out of children's reach."

In their study of accidental poisonings in Canada, the two organizations found that five substances are responsible for the majority of accidents. On their danger list are sleeping pills, turpentine, ASA compounds, lye and kerosene.

South Viet Nam Outpost Like Medieval Fortress

Saigon (AP) - A Vietnamese government outpost is something like a medieval fortress. It is not a pleasant place to which to live when an enemy is close. Last Friday, an accident at one of these outposts - Plei Do Lam - killed 15 residents, mostly women and children. Seventy-four others were wounded.

During an intense electrical storm, a lightning bolt struck in the forest, electrical discharge that followed it shattered mines around the camp were set off by their electric detonators.

Most posts are run by regional militiamen or "troop" or regular defense groups. Each post is likely to be the one strong point in any given community, and when the Viet Cong comes, many of the local people go inside for protection.

Often, the wives and children of the armed defenders live with their men, and sleep hanging on the timbered walls. They are a common sight.

Sometimes the women fight right along with their men, including crated mortar ammunition and firing tanks of a machine-gun ammunition.

But as a rule, the posts are a maze of bunkers, trenches, machine-gun emplacements and mortar pits. They are ugly and uncomfortable.

Often, as at Plei Do Lam, the families of the militiamen build their huts just outside the inner defenses of their camps but within the outer aprons of barbed wire, mines, spike traps and moats. The idea is that the families can rush inside the post as soon as an enemy attack is mounted.

It is an unusual and sometimes gruesome way of life. But the families who lead this life have chosen it over the only alternatives - life in the Communist zone. Either way, they have the violence, but at the outposts they are at least with their men in uniform. The system seems to work.

"Give me an outpost where the men have their families with them any day of the week," a U.S. special forces man said recently. "With the wife at your side, what better motivation could you ask for to fight and win?"

That's not all that will change. Where there are now a few corner stores, there are certain to be supermarkets. Where there are only a few isolated houses, there will be subdivisions.

There will be problems, too, but Father Joseph Bergeron, whose Roman Catholic parish embraces the town and about 500 residents in the immediate rural area, says these can be foretold if the "proper measures" are taken.

Becancour-pronounced Bay-Cahn-Coor—from its first days almost 200 years ago, has been a small agricultural village across the St. Lawrence River from Trois-Rivières about half-way between Montreal and Quebec City.

Until announcement of the steel mill, the largest and about the only sign of modern industrial expansion to hit the area was a $35,000,000 bridge across the St. Lawrence. It is currently under construction.

Sleepy Hamlet Of Becancour To Have Industrial Future

BECAINCOUR, Que. (CP)—A single street dotted with a few stores, a barber shop, a funeral home and a Roman Catholic Church and an official population of 312.

That is the Becancour of today.

A thriving town of 40,000 and a boom economy fed by a $225,000,000 steel mill.

That is the Becancour of tomorrow, a tomorrow Mayor Pierre Blondin says will dawn within a decade.

And all because of an announcement by the Quebec government Wednesday that Becancour has been confirmed as the site of the long-proposed steel complex.

It was enough to turn this quiet agricultural community into a happy hubbub of future promise.

"We're exuberant," says Mayor Blondin, a defence department employee at nearby Nicolet who serves as Becancour's chief magistrate without remuneration.

"That will change now," he said Thursday. "We'll have to have better prepared men for this job."

It is almost completely a French-speaking community.

United Church Official Hints At Rural Co-operation

TORONTO (CP)—The secretary of the United Church of Canada's board of home missions today suggested that his church might co-operate with other denominations in rural areas.

He also suggested assistance to rural pastoral charges in the provision of church buildings with adequate facilities for youth and adult organizations and "an effort to make possible longer pastorates by ministers serving rural charges."

In his report to the board's annual meeting Rev. M. C. Macdonald said that "consultation and co-operation with sister congregations" seems practical to "eliminate, where possible, overlapping and uneconomical competition."

In urban areas, because of the growth of Canada's cities, Mr. Macdonald recommended improvement in church centres, more trained personnel including urban ministers with special insights into the function of such ministries as well as deaconesses and social workers, and renewal of certain properties.

A copy of Mr. Macdonald's report was issued to the press prior to its presentation.

By the time he had stopped again, his front wheels were on the first rail of the track. Before he could reverse the car, there was a collision in which he lost his life.

John George Gunderson was killed while on a Sunday drive with his wife, Mary Evelyn Gunderson, and their three children.

Evidence at the court showed the train was travelling between 30 and 35 miles an hour.

Court Orders CPR To Pay $40,000 In Damages Case

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today ordered the Canadian Pacific Railway and one of its employees to pay claims totaling $40,000 to the widow and three children of a Calgary man who died in a car-train smash in October, 1961.

The claim against the CPR and its employees was that the train either was travelling too fast for a crossing marked as this one was or that the crossing wasn't well marked for trains travelling at the speed of the one in the accident.

After stopping at a city traffic sign on 6th Avenue in Calgary, Mr. Gunderson started the car moving again and as he came to a nearly red crossing, he struck a freight train approaching.

Oceans cover seven-tenths of the total area of the earth's surface.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Monday Colgate - Palmolive Company deceived the American public with television commercials using a faked soap opera.

In the commercials, a surface supposed to represent soap opera was covered with shaving cream, then shaved clean with a single razor stroke. Actually the demonstration did not use soap, but a simulated look-up of sand and shaving.

RIGHT REV. W. R. COLEMAN, of Kelowna, Anglican Bishop of Kootenay, right, officiates at the ordination service Sunday at All Saints' Church, Vernon, of Rev. Jonathan Alfred Greenhaigh, assistant curate at All Saints' Church, Vernon, who acted as bishop's chaplain. Rev. Canon Charles E. Reeve, assistant curate at All Saints' Church, Vernon, is also present.

Assistant Curate At Vernon Becomes Anglican Priest

VERNON—Rev. Jonathan Alfred Greenhaigh, 28, assistant curate at All Saints' Anglican Church, Vernon, became the 30th priest in the Diocese of Kootenay on Passion Sunday.

Mr. Greenhaigh assumed full responsibilities and privileges of the Anglican priesthood when Right Rev. W. R. Coleman, Bishop of Kootenay, officiated at the ordination service in All Saints' Church and celebrated Holy Communion in the presence of a number of brother clergy from the North Okanagan and Kootenays, and a large congregation.

The new priest was ordained deacon in St. James' Church, Vancouver, April 27, 1964, by Bishop Coleman. With the exception of six weeks in Lumby, where he was locum tenens in the absence of Rev. E. S. Somers, Mr. Greenhaigh has been assistant to the rector, Rev. Canon C. E. Reeve, at All Saints' Church since that time.

Born in Winnipeg and married with two sons, Mr. Greenhaigh was educated at St. James' public school and high schools in Winnipeg; graduated with his Bachelor of Arts degree from St. John's College; and from the Anglican Theological College, Vancouver, in April, 1964.

Mr. Greenhaigh is on the teaching staff of Vernon Preparatory School on a part time basis, where he instructs in literature, social studies and religious education, as well as being chaplain.

Bishop Coleman preached from Ephesians 4: verse 7, "In the fellowship of Christ's Body all are equal; but some are called to particular functions, and are given particular gifts. The office of priesthood is one called, and equipped by God," said the bishop.

"His duty is to minister to the spiritual needs of his people."

"Whatever a priest may be called upon to be, or do, he can never be isolated from the Body of Christ."

Winfield Guiders Plan Tea, Sale

OKANAGAN CENTRE — The Parents committee of the First Winfield Guides and Brownies met at the home of Mrs. Lois Taylor and it was decided that instead of the annual mother and daughter banquet, a Mother's Day tea and sale would be held. The time and place will be decided later. The Guides and Brownies will assist with the sale.

District Commissioner Mrs. Winifred Johnson was in attendance along with eight members. Mrs. Lillian Hillyard, president, presided over the meeting and Mrs. Helen Krebs acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Mochnauer.

Mrs. Hillyard gave a report of the happenings at the annual conference held in Kelowna the previous weekend and thanked the mothers for supplying salads for the conference.

BAGIN COST TOO MUCH MONTREAL (CP) — Plastic bags for garbage collection would save the city 10 per cent, but would cost households $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 a year extra. It is a director Jean Arpin recently decided it would be too costly for most people to change to plastic garbage bags after a three-month survey of their use.
